

Science week has inspired everyone this week. The children have been investigating change and things that do change in our world. It was exciting to investigate if we could change the colour of flowers and how animals change their bodies by storing blubber to protect them from the cold. Thank you for your Easter Egg Donations and I wish you all an enjoyable weekend.

Well done!

During British Science Week, we embraced the theme "Adapt and Change," which provided an ideal chance to explore these ideas within the animal kingdoms and scientific experiments. In our ever-changing world, understanding adaptation is vital for survival and progress. This week-long celebration aimed to foster curiosity, discovery and innovation in science, inspiring our children to engage in science through hands on learning and explorations. It also helped children to understand how science affects their everyday world. As part of the celebration, our entire school engaged in a science experiment where we explored how to change the colour of a white rose to match our class colours. We made various adaptations to support our roses in making these changes and investigated which method had the most impact, deepening our understanding of adaptation and change in a practical context.

The Eco Council had a visit from our Chair of Governors, Stephen Packman. He bought a special gift, our very own bug hotel! We learnt about how important minibeasts are for our biodiversity

The bug hotel will be hung up on our playground and will hopefully attract lots of creatures, including solitary bees. If one of holes seals on our hotel, that will mean that a solitary bee laid an egg there!

SCHOOL COUNCIL

I met with the school council to confirm dates for fundraising.

They would like to raise money for Red Nose Day and helping children around the world who don't have as much as us. Therefore, on Friday 21st March, please donate £1 to Comic Relief and children can wear red clothes!

Due to the polling day, we have moved the pyjama and cake sale date to Friday 23rd May.

Please remember to look after our local community by parking respectfully and taking your rubbish home with you.

Attendance

Congratulations to GREEN class. Keep up the amazing work 😊
